NO COVID PATIENTS AT HOSPITAL!

Report by Danielle Thompson

FOR the first time in more than a year, there are currently NO patients at Southport Hospital with the coronavirus.

The optimistic news comes just weeks after the first phase of normality returning with lockdown restrictions being eased.

Southport and Ormskirk Hospital NHS Trust have now reported no inpatients being actively treated for Covid-19 for the first time since last year on Friday, April 30.

In the first wave of the pandemic, the figures for the Trust peaked in April 2020 at around 100 and gradually dropped off to very low numbers by

Trust chief executive Trish Armstrong-Child

October but these spiked again by November, levelling over the Christmas period.

At the peak of the pandemic, earlier this year, there were more than 150 patients being treated at the Trust. These numbers, which went up very rapidly in the New Year, have come down in a steady decline from the worst in February 2021, with the 'no Covid patients' news being confirmed this week by health chiefs.

Covid patients' news being confirmed this week by health chiefs.

Last year, when the pandemic took hold, the Trust re-deployed staff in a bid to meet the challenges of the pandemic. They treated patients in red wards for suspected or known covid cases and green wards for those who has tested negative.

Trust chief executive Trish Armstrong-Child, said: "I want to thank all our staff for their exceptional hard work and dedication caring for patients and colleagues in often challenging circumstances."

He said: "To play Jean Valjean is a dream for me. I am very lucky. Les Miserables is the greatest show ever written in musical theatre. This is the show that I have always wanted to be in."

Queenscourt Hospice launches annual Forget Me Not appeal

by Danielle Thompson

AS THE team at Queenscourt Hospice get set to mark their Pearl Anniversary and mark 30 years of providing compassionate care for local people with life-limiting illnesses, they are inviting members of the public to celebrate someone they love, whilst also raising muchneeded funds.

During the past 12 months, the Covid-19 pandemic has had a huge impact on the Kew hospice's fundraising events and initiatives, which has resulted in a significant loss of income for the hospice.

Now, they are hoping that as many people as possible will get involved by making a donation and dedicating a flower in their virtual Forget-Me-Not Meadow as they launch their 2021 Forget-Me-Not Appeal.

Every donation will help Queenscourt to con tinue providing exceptional palliative care for more than 1,800 patients from across Southport, Formby and West Lancashire every year and to support their families.
Go to https://visufund.com/forget-me-notappeal-2021 to make a donation, choose your flower and its colour and then write a special message in honour of a loved one. You can also upload a photo of the person you are honouring and share your flower with friends and family on social media sites Facebook and Twitter.

Kate Tipton-Thomas, at Queenscourt, said: "After the exceptionally challenging year that we have all had, it is wonderful to see spring come around create a magnificent virtual Forget-Me-Not Meadow filled with heart-felt messages in celebration of loved

"We hope that you will join us in this celebration by dedicating a flower to someone who is special to you. Every donation really does a difference."

Parbold charity shares its story as part of fundraising appeal

Report by Henry James

A VILLAGE charity has shared its story as part of a fundraising appeal for the University of Manchester, helping it to raise more than £100,000.

The Natalie Kate Moss Trust - based in Parbold was set up in 2012 by the Moss family following Natalie's death from a sudden Brain Haemorrhage at the age of 26.

Natalie's sister, Fiona Moss, shared her sister's story in a special video which was used as part of The University of Manchester's stroke research appeal. The appeal, which was launched in December 2020, has been a fantastic success, receiving donations from around the world. All the money raised will fund a new PhD research post at the university with a focus on haemorrhagic stroke. The new researcher will increase capacity in the Manchester stroke team and support the search for lifesaving new treatment.

Around half of all patients who experience this type of stroke will die, and this death rate has changed very little in the past 30 years. This is in stark contrast to other diseases that have seen death rates reduce substantially over that time.

Natalie Kate Moss

There is currently no successful treatment for haemorrhagic stroke – making this is a key area of research focus for the Manchester Stroke Group. The university's strengths in Neuroscience research and links with the UK's largest clinical stroke centre make Manchester particularly well-placed to lead the search for better treatments. Professor Stuart Allan, from the University of Manchester, leads the team that will welcome the new PhD researcher, and expressed his gratitude to Fiona Moss of the Natalie Kate Moss Trust and to the hundreds of donors who have helped to fund the new post.

He said: "Natalie's story played a central part in helping us to inspire donations from around the world and we are very grateful to her for sharing her family's very personal tragedy in order to help us raise awareness and help people to understand the importance of our research.

"Thanks to these generous donations, we will now be able to strengthen our team with crucial expertise which will drive our research on to new levels. With an extra researcher on the team, I'm confident we'll make quicker progress towards a much-needed treatment for haemorrhagic

Fiona Moss, co-founder of the Natalie Kate Moss Trust, said: Thank you so much to everyone who has donated over the last few months to such an incredibly worthwhile appeal.
"My family and I know firsthand the struggles and heart-break that stroke can cause. That's why we're so proud to support Professor Allan and his excellent team. The appeal remains open and any further donations will be used to fund resources and equipment to support the new researcher's work.

Covid-free hospital

From page 1 "The reduction reflects the fall in community transmission of Covid, however, it is vital that as restrictions begin to ease that we all continue to follow social distancing guidance."
The lack of Covid patients means it is now hoped that the Trust will be able to begin to return to 'normal' services especially as hopes continue to rise that the vaccine will keep numbers down going forward.

Across the UK, by May 2, more than 34million people had received their first dose of the vaccine with 15million having had their second jab.

People, no matter what their vaccine status, are also urged to continue getting tested as restrictions are eased. You can collect home test kits or book a test for COVID-19 at a local testing centre by visiting the Sefton Council website or calling 119.

The NHS has been inviting those eligible for a jab by letter and text with GPs also calling some

Teenage author, Sam, donates copies of new book to hospital to help diabetes sufferers

by Henry James

SAMUEL Grant, a young author from Wigan, has donated 50 copies of his new book to Ormskirk Hospital to be gifted to newly diagnosed Type 1 diabetes sufferers.

The book explains the issues of being diagnosed as a diabetic to a child.

The 13-year-old chose Southport and Ormskirk NHS Trust to make the donation as it was the team at Ormskirk that saved his life after his diagnosis back in March 2016, when he was just eight years old.

The Southport and Ormskirk diabetes team, who feature in the books illustrations, were delighted with the delivery of the books and Dr May Ng at Southport and Ormskirk NHS Trust said: "We are so proud of 13 year old Sam's book launch of 'Oh One Day.'

"It is a delightful book that gives insight into Sam's personal experience of Type 1 diabetes and describes his journey from diagnosis to managing his diabetes well with the help of his family, friends and diabetes team."

Sam's Type 1 diabetic journey started, his mum, Michelle Grant, said: "Just five days before Easter. Samuel, who was eight at the time, had been 'under the weather for too long. They say 'Mother knows best' and after several doctors visits, which prescribed, 'more rest' I felt desperate.

"We decided to take him to the out of hours doctor at Ormskirk Hospital, where

Samuel presents copies of his new book to Dr May Ng and specialist nurse. Michelle Quinn, at Ormskirk Hospital were walking out I felt a prompting to take him to hospital and I responded by walking him straight back into A&E.

"There he was quickly and correctly diagnosed as a type 1 diabetic. He was in DKA (Diabetic ketoacidosis – a life threatening condition) It was then that the barbehell dropped. Our world falt like it bombshell dropped. Our world felt like it had been turned upside down."

Samuel, especially, found understanding the condition and all it entailed, difficult, and looking back he had commented: "I wished that there had been a book I could have read that let me know everything was gonna be ok! My new life, as a type 1 diabetic, was very different and explaining that to my friends was like talking to an alien. They just didn't under-

Instead of feeling sorry for himself Sam,

Christ of Latter Day Saints, actively looks for opportunities to help others, used these feelings to inspire him to do something to help children who were in a similar situation.

He explained: "It was really hard after I was diagnosed but I felt that I wanted to help others to have hope as they experienced the same feelings that I had at that time. It was then that I first thought of writing a children's book about an alien called Zegg. I wanted to help children who were newly diagnosed. One of my favourite authors is Dr Suess so I tried to write it in his kind of style."

Sam hopes to be able to gift his books to NHS trusts all across the UK so they can distribute copies to as many diagnosed Type 1 children as possible.

Retirement living scheme refused

SEFTON Council's planning committee has rejected proposals to build a retirement living scheme of 44 residential units at the site of the former Royal British Legion on the outskirts of West Lancs, on Liverpool Road South, Maghull.

The development would have contained 44, 23 one bedroom and 21 two bedroom retirement living apartments.

The committee considered the report of the Chief Planning Officer, recommending the application be approved subject to conditions.

The committee also received a representation from Councillor John Sayers, Ward Councillor, in objection to the application.

In the minutes for the meeting, Sefton Council gave the following reason for refusal: "The proposed building is not a high quality design and is out of character with the local area due to its excessive height and incongruous design.

"The proposed development is therefore contrary to Sefton Local Plan policy EQ2 'Design', Maghull Neighbourhood Plan policy MAG 4 'Residential Character Areas', and the requirements of the National Planning Policy Framework in particular Chapter 12 'Achieving well-designed places'

A house manager's office as well as communal facilities such as a resident's lounge, CCTV entry system, pavement car store/charging points, guest suite and Careline alarm facility would all have been part of the development.

Concern had been expressed by Councillor Sayers, on behalf of Maghull Town Council, who believed the four storey develop ment was "not consistent" with the Parkhaven Character Area.

The Planning Committee on February 17 had considered the application, but it was deferred to enable further discussion with the applicant, McCarthy and Stone, to address concerns over the scheme.

Police success in Operation Sceptre

POLICE in West Lancashire joined forces across the country to support a national week of 'intensive action' against knife crime.

Operation Sceptre, ran from April 26 until May 2, and takes place nationally twice a year, supporting the work Lan-cashire Police does to ensure people across the county feel safe from knife crime.

In West Lancashire, knife bins are situated at Tanhouse Community Centre, Digmoor Evermoor Hub, and by Orm-skirk Police station.

Last Thursday, April 29 police neighbourhood teams searched areas in Digmoor for knives and other offensive weapons. Among the first finds were two large knives.

On Sunday, May 2 he neighbourhood policing team was at Asda Skelmersdale to answer questions. As part of Op Sceptre, police also used their mobile police station as a knife amnesty drop-off point. Any knives brought could be dropped off and no questions asked.

A spokesperson for West Lancashire Police said: "Across West Lanpeople schools cashire and primary high schools have been spoken to about knife crime. That includes the effect of carrying knifes and everything to do with knife crime.

"We have also been concentrating on our knife bins. These allow people to anonymously dispose of knifes. There is no crime involved. Thank you to everyone who has used these facilities and used our bins effectively. We really appreciate that, and we want to thank residents for their support.

Some of the knives which were found in Digmoor

"The Neighbourhood Policing team would like to thank to us today at ASDA.

"The initiative also saw officers working with partner organisations to conduct a week-long range of activities. These included visiting local shops to give advice on the laws on selling knives, conducting knife sweeps in public places, and using metal detecting arches and wands in public places to identify people who are carrying knives.

"We have also been out and about again letting residents know about our Lancashire Talking service, which let's police know what it's like to live in your area and gives residents the charge to tall police. idents the chance to tell police what issues matter most to

Chuffed! West Lancashire Light Railway Trust get £19k grant boost

WEST Lancashire Light Railway Trust at Hesketh Bank received a grant of £18,900 from the Government's £1.57 billion Culture Recovery Fund to help the organisation reopen.

Nearly £400million has been awarded to thousands of cultural organisations across the country including the West Lancashire Light Railway in the recent round of support from the Culture Recovery Fund, the Culture Secretary announced.

The West Lancashire Light Railway Trust is a charitable Trust that operates a short 2ft gauge steam railway in the heart of Hesketh Bank village.

Run entirely by volunteers, the railway has operated for more than 50 years. The last year has impacted the railway hard, with very little income to cover the basic overheads.

The popular attraction normally operates from April to November every Sunday and Bank Holiday, with a collection of historic steam locomotives, all more than 100 years old and has a proud record of high quality restoration and preservation of a collection of historic locomotives, completed by our members in Hesketh Bank.

Although the railway is still closed to the public, they hope to reopen soon, welcoming back visitors old and new. More volunteers are also welcome. Mike Spall – West Lancashire Light Railway Trust Chair said: "This funding means a great deal to our Railway Trust. 2020 was a very difficult year for us with nearly all our scheduled operating days cancelled due to the Covid-19 emergency.

"Like many heritage operations, our income, used to keep us operating, was lost overnight. This funding will ensure that we can reopen and welcome back our many visitors and friends.

"It will also allow our wonderful volunteers to return to the railway, maintaining friendships and wellbeing, and provide something positive for our com-munity. Our sincere thanks to the Cultural Recovery Fund for this well-timed funding." Ros Kerslake, CEO of The National Lottery Heritage Fund, said: "Spring is definitely here, bringing not only supplying but bringing not only sunshine but that sense of optimism and hope for the future

"We are all looking forward to heritage places and other visitor attractions reopening and I am very pleased that we have been able to support DCMS in delivering this vital funding to ensure the UK's heritage sector can rebuild and thrive, boosting local economies, creating jobs and supporting personal well-being."

THE MP for West Lancashirer recently met selfadvocates and carers to hear directly from them about why the national shortage of learning disability nurses needs to be addressed.

They each told Rosie Cooper (online, above) their individual stories of the difference a learning disability nurse - or lack of one - made in their patient experience in hospital. They also asked her to pressure the government on the national shortage of learning disability nurses.

Ms Cooper said: "It was wonderful to hear the difference that a learning disability nurse can make.

"It's already far too difficult for people in this situation to access NHS services and so increased support is not just important but vital! Inequality in health care is unfortunately common, but it doesn't have to be. I hope the NHS will listen to this campaign and hire the necessary number of learning disability nurses so that everyone can access the support they need."

New pedestrian and cycle lane planned for dangerous junction

Report by Henry James

A NEW pedestrian crossing and cycle lane is being proposed by Lancashire County Council for the dangerous junction of County Road and Yew Tree Road in Ormskirk.

Consultation is currently ongoing for the traffic regulation orders needed for the new pedestrian crossing and cycle lane

Campaigners have often called for more road safety measures on County Road.

A toucan crossing - a pedestrian crossing which also allows bicycles to be ridden across - on County Road, Ormskirk, is proposed as part of a 'section 106' agreement to improve sustainable transport to a nearby retail development. The county council has said: "Such a crossing would provide increased safety for cyclists and other vulnerable road users, thereby preserving or improving the amenities of the area through which the road runs."

Increased safety

The toucan crossing, in County Road, would measure from a point 10 metres south west of its junction with the centreline of Yew Tree Road, for a distance of 48 metres in a north easterly direction.

'No Waiting At Any Time' restrictions on Yew Tree Road, are proposed in conjunction with a cycle track with right of way on foot in order to maintain a clear route for cyclists who are entering or leaving the cycle track. The county council added: "No Waiting At Any Time restriction will also provide improved visibility towards oncoming vehicles when exiting the cycle track, thereby preserving or improving the amenities of the area through which the road runs."

The scheme is also receiving funds from the county coun-

Any representations or objections relating to the proposal must be made in writing and should be sent to The Director of Corporate Services, Lancashire County Council, P O Box 78, County Hall, Preston PR1 8XJ or by e-mail to tro-consultation@lancashire.gov.uk quoting reference number LSG4/894.13100/AFR before May 20, 2021.

Northern to reintroduce key rail routes back into service

NORTHERN is preparing to change its timetables with the aim of giving people returning to rail travel more flexibility.

The train operator has been running reduced timetables since the January lockdown, but is now reintroducing services on some key routes to help customers 'get where they need to be'.

Northern - alongside other operators - continues to feel the impact of the coronavirus pandemic and the new timetables reflect the challenges faced by the rail industry and the changing demands of customers, many of whom may be seeking holidays in the UK or returning to workplaces for the first time in several months.

Chris Jackson, regional director at Northern, said: "We have brought in as many additional services as possible, with the resource we have available, and have prioritised routes and times where there is the most significant demand.

"The timetables we will introduce on May 16 have been designed to provide as many services as possible, at the times our customers need them, without risking punctuality and reliability.

"We want our customers to have confidence in the service we are offering and our plan will give those customers the stability they deserve."

The approach does, however, mean that some routes will not see any enhancements as part of the new timetables and, on a handful of routes there will be a reduction in services.

Some services may also be busier than Northern customers have been used to in recent months and so anyone planning to return to the railway is asked to plan ahead and, where possible, travel at quieter times of day.

He added: "We need our customers to work with us and to think carefully about their journeys as we steadily return to a more normal timetable."

Meanwhile, Northern continues to take additional steps to make the railway as safe as possible. Extra cleaning is being carried out on trains and at stations and the operator is asking customers to travel during less busy times where possible. Face coverings are mandatory (aside from those with specific exemptions) on all trains and at stations.

Northern's new timetables can be found online via the Northern website or at www.nationalrail.co.uk

Karate teacher looking for premises to open new classes in area

A KARATE teacher who has just moved to Ormskirk is looking for premises to open new classes in the area.

Ken Fairhurst is a 7th Dan Kyoshi, and has taught karate in Skelmersdale for more than 40 years, the longest continuously run martial arts class in the area.

He said: "Since moving to Ormskirk I have been actively looking for premises to open new classes in this area, but to no avail. I was hopeful about a local primary school that offered use of their premises but they could not open during school holidays, so that was not suitable. I am hoping a reader may let us use premises.

"I am the chief instructor of a group that is not for profit, so annual fees are for membership of the Governing Body (NAKMAS) and insurance. They are £25 in the first year and £15 per year renewal. Training fees are determined by how much rent is charged for use of the premises, but are usually £4 per session.

"There are no direct debit or monthly contracts, people can just pay when they train."

adults, and there is no upper age limit

Voters asked to wear masks - and bring a pen

VOTERS are being reminded the upcoming local elections will be different to usual to make them Covid-safe.

People are being asked to to wear a face covering and bring their own pen or pencil, on Thursday (May 6).

Thursday (May 0).

They are also urged to check their polling card as in some cases polling station locations have changed because the usual venue is too small to be made covid-safe.

There are special arrangements in place to ensure that anyone who needs to self-isolate, or becomes unwell as a result of Covid-19 shortly before polling day, can still cast their vote. Anyone in this position will be able to apply for an emergency proxy vote, where someone they trust can vote on their behalf, by contacting the electoral registration team at their local district or borough council.

Anyone who has symptoms of Covid-19, or has been asked to self-isolate, should not attend the polling station.

Polling stations will be kept clean, and ventilated as well as possible with hand sanitiser By Henry James available at the entrance and exit.

Angie Ridgwell, returning officer for the Lancashire County Council elections, said: "These elections are your chance to have your say about who will take decisions on the many vital services which the county council delivers over the next four

"We have been making every effort to make sure polling stations are Covid-safe and give everyone who has chosen to vote in person the confidence to cast their vote.

"There will be extra staff on hand to manage the numbers inside polling stations, and we're grateful for people's patience if they are asked to queue for a while. Pens and masks will be available for anyone who has forgotten them, but it will help things to run smoothly if people can please remember to bring their own.

"It's really important you don't come to the polls if you have symptoms of Covid-19 or need to self-isolate, but you can still cast your vote by nominating someone you trust to vote on your behalf right up until 5pm on polling day. If you do need to arrange a proxy vote, please contact your local council who will put you in touch with their electoral registration team.

'It's behind you... campaign launched

SOUTHPORT Offshore Rescue Trust has launched a new tidal safety campaign – #ItsBehindYou – to remind beach visitors of the need to be on the lookout for tides when enjoying Sefton's beaches.

The Trust was called upon countless times during last year's busy summer season to rescue cutoff beachgoers. In anticipation of another busy spring and summer, the safety campaign has been instigated to ensure everyone knows about the dangers of becoming cut-off by the incoming Banners with a special QR code have been placed along the Ainsdale and Southport coastline. When scanned, the code takes the beach user to Southport Lifeboat's website which contains the day's tidal information, information on the #Its-BehindYou campaign, along with further coastal safety advice

Many people are unaware of the movement of nearshore waters. While it may appear that waves undergo a simple cycle; it can in fact create dangers for beachgoers.

#ItsBehindYou aims to inform the public about the basics of tidal phenomena and encourages beach visitors to check the tide times each and every time they visit the coast.

"Those visiting the borough's beaches are also urged to be aware of their surroundings and ultimately to check behind them to identify whether they are at risk of becoming cut-off.

Do NOT ever punch your own name into Google!

Kia is bringing its all-electric EV6 to the UK in October

ONE of the first rules of the internet - to badly paraphrase Fight Club - is not to punch your own name into Google. Especially if you have a surname that's shared with quite a few other car nuts.

As I'm a paid-up subscriber to Hypocrites Monthly, I've done just that and discovered that there's an entire car chatroom dedicated to all the mean things that I said in car reviews in the early Eighties, several years before I was born (it turns out that the David Simister that they meant was in fact fellow motoring scribe, and thoroughly nice chap, John Simister).

There's also another David Simister somewhere in Yorkshire who's enjoyed several stints as a councillor for UKIP and, for those of you who read this very newspaper's Southport edition last week, my dad, who apparently is eagerly awaiting his blue wheelie bin.

I've been mistaken for all three of them – and I suspect they're all a bit bored of being asked what they think of Morris Minors, for that matter.

But in much the same way that there's more than one David Simister, there's also more than one mid-sized crossover that runs entirely on elec-

You'd be forgiven for thinking that just about the only option for the moment is Volkswagen's ID4, only option for the moment is Volkswagen's ID4, which has just gone on sale and is essentially the higher-riding, roomier cousin of the Golf-sized ID3 hatchback. Yet out of nowhere Kia's come up with something that looks even better.

The EV6 is clearly aiming to take a sizeable chomp out of VW's cake.

Both are roughly the same size, both start at a smidgen under £40k, both promise to eke more than 310 miles out of a single charge-up, plus the option to add another 200 should you find a fast charger and a nearby coffee shop to stop at for charger and a nearby coffee shop to stop at for half an hour.

Both of them give you the zero emissions equivalent of just over 200bhp, delivered to the rear wheels, although Kia is planning on bringing an all-wheel-drive version over here too sometime next summer.

There's very little to split them in terms of tech, performance and how far they'll go before you need to find somewhere, anywhere to pull up and plug them in for another hour or two, but I think the Kia, which you can order now ahead of it arriving here in October, edges it for one reason alone; it looks fabulous.

The Korean carmaker's been on a roll with its styling for a while now, but its latest design chief, Karim Habib, clearly knows how to sculpt a family wagon into something sports caresque – 12 years ago he did the BMW 7-Series, so he knows his stuff. Inside, it looks great, too – while Kia's made a point of trimming the seats in vegan leather, I'm far more excited about the enormous curved panoramic tablet that contains all of the digitised instruments, similar to the one the Honda E uses and on top-of-the-range models, a heads-up display that uses augmented reality to beam the latest traffic info straight into your retinas. I can't wait to find out on UK roads if it's as good as it looks.

David Simister is the editor of Classic Car Weekly
